

THE UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA
Community Lecture Series on Public Health Issues

How to travel and stay healthy

As international travel has increased, so has the spread of new and emerging infectious diseases. Now more than ever travelers need to be informed about the measures necessary to prevent illness and injury abroad. Attend this free public lecture to learn directly from the experts on this growing health issue.

Tuesday, April 22, 2008

7:00 p.m.

Masters Hall

The University of Georgia

Center for Continuing Education

1197 S. Lumpkin Street, Athens, GA

Brought to you by UGA's College of Public Health and Biomedical and Health Sciences Institute.

www.biomed.uga.edu

Pose your questions to the experts....

Chris Whalen M.D., M.S.

Director, Division of Epidemiology
Case Western Reserve University
School of Medicine

Ron Forehand M.D.

Medical Director
University of Georgia
University Health Center